the last decade has seen a surge of scholarly interest in these religious professionals and a good number of high quality publications our volume however with its unique intercultural character and its explicit focus on appropriation and contestation of religious expertise in the imperial era is substantially different unlike the rather narrow focus of earlier studies of civic priests the papers presented here examine a wider range of religious professionals their dynamic interaction with established religious authorities and institutions and their contributions to religious innovation in the ancient mediterranean world from the late hellenistic period through to late antiquity from the city of rome to mainland greece asia minor syria and egypt from greek civic practice to ancient judaism a further advantage of our volume is the wide range of media of transmission taken into account our contributors look at both old and new materials which derive not only from literary sources but also from papyri inscriptions and material culture above all this volume assesses critically convenient terminological usage and offers a unique insight into a rich gamut of ancient mediterranean religious specialists this is everything strange and wonderful that you are not supposed to write about in a first novel metaphysical weirdness

the first ethiopians explores the images of africa and africans that evolved in ancient egypt in classical greece and imperial rome in the early mediterranean world and in the early domains of christianity inspired by curiosity regarding the origins of racism in southern africa malvern van wyk smith consulted a wide range of sources from rock art to classical travel writing from the pre dynastic african beginnings of egyptian and nubian civilisations to greek and roman perceptions of africa from khoisan cultural expressions to early christian conceptions of africa and its people as demonic from aristotelian climatology to medieval cartography and from the geo linguistic history of africa to the most recent revelations regarding the genome profile of the continent s peoples his research led to a startling proposition western racism has its roots in africa itself notably in late new kingdom egypt as its ruling elites sought to distance egyptian civilisation from its african origins kushite nubians founders of napata and meroë who in the eighth century bce furnished the black rulers of the twenty fifth dynasty in egypt adopted and adapted such dynastic discriminations in order to differentiate their own superior meroitic civilisation from the world of other ethiopians in due course archaic greeks who began to arrive in the Nile delta in the seventh century bce internalised these distinctions in terms of homer's identification of two ethiopias an eastern and a western to create a racialised and racist discourse of worthy and savage ethiopians such conceptions would inspire virtually all subsequent roman and early medieval thinking about africa and africans and become foundational in european thought the book concludes with a survey of the special place that aksumite ethiopia later abyssinia has held in both european and african conceptual worlds as the site of worthy ethiopia as well as in the wider context of discourses of ethnicity and race excavations by the dakhleh oasis project at ismant al kharab ancient kellis in the dakhleh oasis egypt revealed the presence of an extensive necropolis dating to the roman period with hundreds of rock cut tombs containing multiple burials termed the kellis 1 cemetery it yielded a range of artifacts and many of the individuals were provided with elaborately decorated cartonnage coverings this is the largest collection of such material yet discovered in dakhleh this book presents a detailed analysis of the entire corpus of cartonnage found at kellis in a securely excavated context these objects which include mummy masks foot cases and full body covers were part of the burial accoutrements of the wealthier residents of the village stylistic and digital investigation of the artifacts suggests a well defined craft production with the presence of multiple groups of craftsmen using specific manufacturing techniques and local traits in their iconographic repertoire the scale of evidence demonstrates that kellis was a vibrant community with a dynamic funerary production in contact with nearby areas comparison with finds from the neighboring oasis of kharga as well as with artifacts in museums collections and from the antiquities market suggest a complex network of skilled craftsmen throughout the region this is the first comprehensive study of the material it has been studied in person by the author in the field enabling a detailed appraisal of the items whether intact or fragmentary it builds on recent research addressing regionalism and craftsmanship and constitutes one of the main sources to investigate issues of permanence and change in the indigenous funerary customs of the area
